

School Council - Autumn term report from Cople

The council has been busy this term, they have re-introduce 'worry boxes' in each class which sit on the class teachers desk and if any child is worried about anything the can leave a note for the teacher to find in the worry box. The teacher can then chat with the child at an appropriate time.

They instigated a box of 'lunchtime books', which go out under the tree each lunchtime play for children to use. There are a mixture of story and non-fiction book for all ages and this has been very well received by the children. The School council children take responsibility for taking the books out and packing them away again.

The main event the school council has been busy with this term is a book sale to raise money for new playground equipment. They made posters and introduced the event at a whole school assembly. The event took place on Thursday 7th December after school in the playground.

The school council have many more ideas that have come from their class mates which are collected in a suggestion box and will be working on these after the Christmas break.
